Probe shooting

A 24-year-old Waveland man was reported still in serious condition Wednesday at Hancock General Hospital after suffering a gunshot wound in the lower abdomen about 1:15 p.m. Monday.

Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner, Jr., identified the man as Bobby Carver. He said further investigation of the occurrence cannot be resumed until Carver's physician feels his condition is good enough to permit questioning.

Eye witnesses told the sheriff the .38 calibre revolver apparently accidentally discharged when Carver started to remove it from his person. The accident took place in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Morreale at Hickory and Central Avenues, Waveland, Ladner said he was told Carver had left the house after a noon-time visit and got an article out of the trunk of his car, placing it on his chest, and got in the car. He appeared to be reaching to remove the article, which presumably was the gun, when it discharged and he was shot in the stomach.

The sheriff identified the witnesses as Mrs. Morreale, her daughter, Kay, and Charles Newburn.

Ladner and Chief Deputy Eido Depreo went to the scene as soon as the sheriff's office was notified.

Carver's physician said the man appeared to be improving but will be confined for a long period because of the nature of the wounds.

A small, recently completed swimming pool in Lakeshore, was the scene of the drowning of a three-year-old child Good Friday.

James Richard Work, son of Mrs. Harry Bowman, Lakeshore, was reported by sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner to have drowned shortly after 6:30 p.m. Friday in a pool in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lensmeyer. The pool is said to be surrounded by a five and a half foot fence.

Ladner said the child's stepfather, Harry Bowman, is a civil engineer employed by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers at Mississippi Test Operations, the family having moved to Lakeshore from Quinton, Okla., about two weeks ago.

The child had been playing in the yard with the Lensmeyers' grandchildren, Frank Lensmeyer, III, 8, and William, 4, and started home about 6:30 p.m. when the Lensmeyer boys were called in for dinner. Ladner said the body was found floating in the pool by his mother when she went looking for him a short time later.

A medical respiration given Bowman and efforts of a physician failed to revive the boy.

Death by accidental drowning was the verdict of an inquest jury empaneled by Coroner Emil Piazza. Jury members were Ladner, bailiff, Eido Depreo, R. M. Fleming, William Carbonette, J. T. Jacobs, Harold Stiglet and Chester Favre.

The body was sent by Riemann's Fahy-Whitfield Funeral Home to Quinton Okla., (Cont. on Page 6.)

A new one-year contract between the board of supervisors and NASA providing for continuation and expansion of the security patrol provided by the county at Mississippi Test Operations was approved last week by the supervisors.

Under the modified contract, which became effective April 1, the county will receive $66,887 for the service, expand the six-man guard force to nine members and furnish and additional pick-up truck equipped with firefighting gear.

Assigned to the new patrol jobs were Horace G. (Red) Davis, Jr., for Beat 1; Delbert Daniel Neale for Beat 4 and Kent Seltzer for Beat 5.

R. G. Hubbard, Jr., president of the board of supervisors, said the board met informally Friday to approve the contract which in essence contained what had been agreed upon early last month when representatives of the Marshall Space Flight Center appeared before it. The contract last year was for $41,100.

The new pact will give the force two pick-up trucks and a sedan to patrol the massive rocket testing site now under development.

Under terms of the contract the guards patrol all roads within the facility's 13,500-acre area inspecting all buildings and equipment in the complex. The guards are also responsible for patrolling portions of the test site's buffer zone which are in Hancock County.

The additional patrolmen and truck will give wider coverage of the test site where over 1,000 persons are now involved (Cont. on Page 6.)

Utility construction pushed for Oct. start

Actual construction of the Bay St. Louis sewerage system and improvements to water and gas lines should be under way by October, according to Eugene H. Owen, Bay St. Louis city engineer. Owen and White, consulting engineers, Bay St. Louis, La., said following meeting with Commission Monday.

Commission approved a $3 million bond issue to finance the improvements March 21 by an overwhelming two to one vote following a concerted campaign by citizens, Commission and civic organizations. Owen's meeting was held by Mayor John A. Scaife, who said "we intend to extend the details in every way so we can get construction going as soon as humanly possible."

Owen said his firm got under way Monday with a preliminary investigation of land needed for lagoons, new lagoons and elevated sewerage towers. School board explores teacher housing needs

The county board of education spent the bulk of a brief meeting Saturday morning exploring methods of providing faculty homes at Hancock North Central School.

Trustee S. P. Powell proposed charging rent to the coaches since one is now provided quarters and the other is not and asked that legal aspects of this be checked. Superintendent Robert F. Ladner said he favored some way of erecting an apartment house near the school while board chairman E. P. Orte advanced the theory that private sources might be interested in building rental houses close by.

The superintendent advised he was waiting to get teacher contracts signed for 1964-65 until the state legislature decides what salary hikes will be made. He reported securing a pick-up truck for the bus shop at the government surplus in Jackson for $166. He also asked permission to offer for sale unnecessary articles at the old bus shop which he said are deteriorating from non-use.

1st sub-division under act viewed

First sub-division to come before the Bay St. Louis Planning Commission under the recently enacted ordinance regulating sub-divisions was informally considered Tuesday night by the city planners.

R. A. Scivique who is developing the old Johnness tract off Felicita and Dunbar Streets and J. Norton Haas, Jr., surveyor, asked to appear before the planners for guidance on their development program. While 90 per cent of the sub-division is outside the corporate limits and not within jurisdiction of the ordinance a portion fronting on Dunbar is within the city.

Tentative approval was given the preliminary idea with the understanding formal details will be forthcoming. Planners indicated particular interest in street width, gas, water and sewerage facilities, lot size and general arrangement.

Status of the proposed zoning ordinance was discussed with City Attorney Dan M. Russell, Jr. Fred Wagner, planning chairman, said he believed the confusion over wording of the section dealing with the board of appeals had been clarified and is hopeful Russell will be able to complete the legal aspects in the near future. Zoning has been hanging fire for a year.

Teen Times

Despite the fact that weekend weather ranged from almost balmy to too chilly for summery Easter finery with a few showers thrown in for good measure the "bunnies" frolicked in large numbers. Bermudas and jamacas were worn over frequently bluish knees, but lots of fun was had by all nevertheless.

Everybody attending colleges within a several hundred mile radius came home for the holiday to claim their Easter baskets. And that isn't just a joke . . . in fact we're beginning to wonder just how old one gets before he or she doesn't expect the usual eggs and chocolate bunnies.

We'll welcome Linda Dunham back . . . she's been attending school in Texas for several months, but returned to classes at Bay High last Monday.

We hear that quite a crowd turned out for the yacht club junior dance last Thursday night. A live band was an added attraction at this affair.

Just a few having a ball at Pat Elliott's 16th birthday party March 20 at the Legion Home were Kathy Shorb, Ree Elliott, Barbie Cunningham, Teddo Thomas, Jeannie Rutherford, Wyatt Bowman, Annette Ward, Yvonne Schwartz, Bruce Kleinhaus, Ida Steffel, Rena and Ronnie Lashley and Larry Curren.

We'll send happy 15th birthday wishes to Sally Schaff who celebrated on March 23; Sandra Lachner and Kathleen McAuley, both out their cakes on the 25th and Sarah McFarland whose birthday was March 31.

More beach parties . . . Larry Curren hosted one on March 18, followed by Larry Cox's on the 19th.

Jimmy Rutherford and Larry Rodgers spent spring holidays in Alabama.

Bay High juniors and seniors are getting ready for their annual prom. This dance is the juniors' farewell gift to seniors and is the biggest school social event of the year.

CVO members turned out in large numbers for the Reconciliation luncheon last Sunday at OLG parish hall.

Final rehearsals are now under way for Bay High's senior play, Time in on Terror, to be presented in the school auditorium on Apr. 3.

Paul Miller is a member of Millsaps College choir group, the Madrigal Singers, which will present a concert at Main Street Methodist Church Friday.

Among local University of Southern Mississippi students making the dean's list for the winter semester were Edith Trumb, Mary Lou Herlitz and Carol Western. Carol was also featured as the Student Printer cover girl for the March 20 issue of the paper. Janet Swartzey of Jackson who spends the summer and weekends at her family's Waveland home was also on the dean's list.

We'll send get well wishes to Al Van Antz who is now recuperating from a severe head injury. Al's a patient at Ochsner Foundation Hospital.

About the sharpest men's wear we've noted recently are the North Central basketball team blazers. This is in marked contrast to those sloppy (and sometimes dirty) athletic sweat shirts a number of local boys are affecting these days.

Spring festival at St. Joseph is coming up on April 18. One of the queen candidates, Aggie Bourgeois is sponsoring a record hop Saturday night at St. Clare's parish hall.

Two young ladies receiving novel Easter gifts were Charlene Benigno and Mimi Monti. Charlene is the owner of a new puppy. Mimi has her own bunny. Ann Clark flew in from Rice to spend Easter with her family and was almost immediately pressed into service playing for early Easter services at Main Street Methodist Church.

Caroline Damens, now the owner of a "new" car, had a few days off from x-ray technician school to spend Easter with her parents.

Carol Ann Bourgeois is now working at Meyer's Grocery on Saturday.

Teen Road-E-O scorers named

Scorers have been chosen and other details completed for the first teenage safe driving Road-E-O in Hancock County, which the Bay Jaycees will stage Saturday, April 11, in Our Lady of the Gulf Parish School yard.

At least dogs

The replies to the Jaycee's questionnaire released this week dealing with community betterment (for story see Page 1) may not have been informative beyond relative emphasis to most of us but we think some of the suggestions are of little merit at this time.

Almost all returning the questionnaire asked for street improvement. Now there is no doubt that the streets in Bay St. Louis and to a lesser degree Waveland need truly major improvement. However, Bay St. Louis is in the process of putting in a sewer system and improved water system and it looks like Waveland, which has just completed a major improvement to its water distribution system, is also going to put in a sewer system.

Completely aside from the fact that the barrel containing the municipalities' funds does have a bottom, it would be foolish, we think, to do major surgery on our streets until the sewers are in because putting in sewers and enlarged water mains will tear up most of our streets or the land adjacent to them. However, it might be well for the city fathers to make plans and, in some way provide for the financing, to improve a street as soon as possible after the water and sewer mains are laid. Present plans merely call for returning a street to the condition it was in before the digging and in many instances the present condition is just short of horrendous.

Another improvement many want was in recreational facilities. Of the man made variety perhaps the Bay-Waveland area is deficient, but one of the area's strong points is our superior natural facilities. We think any major expenses along this line are not only not justified now, but should wait until we have afforded many other needs.

Then, of course, there is the dog question. Not only questionnaire answers complain about this, the health department's recently completed survey noted it and letters to the editor and even editorials have complained about this situation for a long time.

The dog question could be improved in one week if enough objectors light a few fires under the mayor and councilman.

Ditto the mayor and aldermen of Waveland Nuff said!

Tax status cited on sales to MTO

Advice has been requested from many citizens whose property in Pearl River, Hancock and Harrison Counties has been purchased by federal government under condemnation proceedings as to the taxable status of their receipts from this source. Involved primarily is property acquired for Mississippi Test Operations.

In general, there are two types of transactions involved, one being a sale of the entire property to the government, and the other being the sale of an easement only to the government. Your contract must be consulted to determine which type transaction you had, the Internal Revenue Service declares.

If your transaction is a sale, you must report any gain realized, which is the difference between your selling price and the adjusted basis in your property. This adjusted basis generally will be the amount you paid for the property less any depreciation you have claimed or were entitled to claim to the date of sale. However, this gain may be postponed in two cases.

The first of these is in instances of sale of business property. You may elect to postpone such gain if you invest the entire proceeds of your sale in property that is similar or related in use to the property it replaces within a period which begins on the date of threat of condemnation and ends one year after the close of your first tax year in which you realized the gain.

The second instance of postponement of gain on a sale is that of property which you used as your residence. The postponement is accomplished by investing the entire proceeds of the sale in a new residence within one year before or after the sale (18 months after the sale if the new residence is not built). You may also elect to postpone the gain if you use the proceeds to pay the purchase price of a new residence.

For detailed information concerning the tax treatment of such proceeds, taxpayers may request a free pamphlet entitled "Condemnation of Private Property for Public Use from any of the Internal Revenue Service offices in the state. J. G. Martin, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue, urges those taxpayers who have further questions about their sale or easement to contact the Internal Revenue office in Hattiesburg or Gulfport on any Monday for additional information.

AT MOCK LEGISLATURE

Gerald Gex and Tom Logue represented the Bay St. Louis Jaycees at a mock legislature conducted by Mississippi Jaycees in Jackson last month. Gex serving as House committee chairman to which the local unit was entitled on rank.

The first of these is in instances of sale of business property. You may elect to postpone such gain if you invest the entire proceeds of your sale in property that is similar or related in use to the property it replaces within a period which begins on the date of threat of condemnation and ends one year after the close of your first tax year in which you realized the gain.

The Mississippi Legislature POLITICOS SPEAK

BY RALPH SOWELL, JR.

The problems of finances, budgets, the Governor's major research bill for a development center in Jackson, election reform proposals, and authorization of police power for the Highway Patrol to cope with civil disorders loom before the 1964 Legislature.

And last week several of the Senators started talking about going home soon. In fact, Sens. E. K. Collins of Laurel and Bill Alexander of Cleveland introduced a resolution calling for the session to close out on April 18.

They also submitted a measure limiting introductions to appropriations, revenue and local and private measures after April 3. Both were referred to the Rules Committee.

However, few legislators share Collins' and Alexander's adjournment optimism. Many think the solons will be in session until late May.

Gov. Johnson's response was, "It seems a poor time to talk about leaving when the Legislature is just getting started on the major bills."

With the close of the 12th week, 569 bills have been introduced in the House and 366 in the Senate. However, all of them will not get out of committees.

Three key decisions were made by legislators last week; the issues involved were the penitentiary, the Liberty Amendment, and election laws.

State penitentiary

The House gave approval 107-8 to a penitentiary reorganization bill which gave the governor complete control over the penal facility.

A five-man board will replace the present three-member commission and the governor would appoint the superintendent, now named by the group. Rep. Robert Anderson of Copiah County guided the measure to passage.

The solid Democratic Senate strengthened Mississippi's one-party system last week by passing a series of election bills making it difficult for Republicans to run as candidates for state offices.

Eighteen of the 22 bills revamping the state's election laws were passed. One was killed and another three will be considered later. The bills still must pass the House.

Rep. L. L. McAllister of Lauderdale, the lone Republican in the 1964 legislature, is expected to head the opposition with heated argument when the bills reach the House.

Gov. Johnson has led the right for approval of the bills, after he contended last summer that a two-party system in Mississippi would give the balance of election power to Negroes.

Gov. Carroll Gartin broke two ties to gain final Senate passage of the election laws, which the opposition say will "bury Republicanism for another hundred years."

Liberty amendment

After years of discussion on the controversial Liberty Amendment, and many defeats, the House of Representatives last week voiced its opposition to the creeping influence of the federal government by passing the measure by a 64-44 vote.

The amendment is in the form of a resolution asking the federal government to repeal the personal income tax law and refrain from business ventures.

Rep. Joe Moss to Hinds steered the bill to passage and said the measure allows the government three years to end income taxation and cease business operations.

Moss said, "If we will quit expecting so much from Uncle Sam, we'll all be in much better shape."

Hancock legislators

Sen. James Rester of Picayune was a sponsor of a bill introduced in the Senate last week which would provide that poll tax receipts for four years would be a prerequisite to voting in local and state elections.

Rep. Walter Phillips of Bay St. Louis introduced two bills in the House last week, and was among the signers of two others. The bills would:

—Provide special license tags for permanent employees of the test facility operated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

—Place all pardoning power, except in special situations, under control of a three-man board.

—Provide additional compensation for members of boards of supervisors from counties bordering along the Gulf of Mexico or Mississippi Sound and wherein there is located a United States government missile test facility.

—Provide that the amount of the appeal bond shall be set by the chancellor.

Rep. Phillips was recorded as voting against the Liberty Amendment, which passed the House last week.

that in tabulating the replies he found quite a few notations that they would not object to higher taxes to provide more municipal facilities.

Beautification ranked second with 55 votes covering clean-up of yards, lots, fix-up, paint-up and the like. Next they listed recreation with additional facilities, equipment and programs with particular emphasis on teen-agers. Those replying called for more and better shopping facilities, lower prices and dependable service. They want sewerage and a disposal system; improvement in health conditions (elimination of insects, control of dogs and a larger hospital); curbs, sidewalks, drainage and street lighting and a better water system.

be used in mooring barges transporting liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen, rocket fuels which must be kept at extremely low temperatures.

The work includes construction of 27 rolling mooring devices, 12 reinforced concrete mooring piers, and 155 linear feet of timber fender, and will require the use of a total of 10,000 linear feet of steel "H" piling, 1,100 cubic yards of concrete and 100 tons of structural steel.

Bids will be opened at Mobile on April 23 for constructing the foundation for a third rocket test stand at MTO. The facility will be used for acceptance testing the first two stages of Saturn V space rockets for the Apollo manned moon landing program.

Foundation work for the new third stand will include clearing about 22 acres, excavating about 205,000 cubic yards of material, installing a dewatering system, driving approximately 38,700 linear feet of steel or concrete piling, constructing a 138-foot by 144-foot pile cap containing over 1,000 tons of reinforcing steel and 7,500 cubic yards of concrete.

Orleanian engaged to Mr. Marquez

Of interest here where the groom-elect's family is widely related is the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Mancuso of New Orleans of the engagement of their daughter, Laura Ann to Marion J. Marquez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Marquez of Pass Christian.

The wedding is planned for April 11 at 10 a. m. at Our Mother of Perpetual Help Chapel in New Orleans.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Mercy Academy in New Orleans.

Her fiancé, grandson of Mrs. William Marquez of Bay St. Louis, is a graduate of St.

LAURA ANN MANCUSO

Stanislaus College and is now associated with Burroughs, Inc., in the Crescent City.

Spring flower show trophy donors listed

Trophy donors and committee chairmen for the spring flower show of Bay-Waveland Garden Club which will be staged Friday and Saturday at the Garden Center on Leonhard Avenue have been announced by Mrs. A. G. Dantagnan, chairman, and Mrs. J. H. Roman, co-chairman.

Awards for the show are being provided by Mesdames J. Hugh Miller, Albert Kuehn, Ben Hill, Ruth Woods Luderbach, Hillaire Ogden, John Stern, C. R. Beyer and Herbert Baron.

Heading committees are

Marriage Licenses

Applications of local interest for marriage licenses issued during the last week by Circuit Clerk Lamar Otis were as follows:

John W. Smith and Geraldine Boudreaux, both of Bay St. Louis; Raymond E. DeRocha and Mrs. Leontine Rita Larsen, both of New Orleans; James D. Brister of Slidell and Connie Faye Necaise of Pearl River.

Watch out for children

Before we forget we want to remind one and all that the comparatively quiet season has come to an end and streets that heretofore had little traffic will be buzzing, so please keep an extra watchful eye on your small children. Almost every year one or more children are struck by cars on the beach. In fact only alert driving by a lady we don't know saved two small girls from being struck on the beach near Terrace on Good Friday. The two approximately three or four year olds darted from the seawall directly in the path of her automobile—it was such a near tragedy we're still shaking.

Nola Bourgeois, Frank Trapani and Cocoa Lafontaine were all patients in Hancock General last week. The trio were undergoing tests.

We're elated to report that Caroline Kiefer has returned to her job as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. She's feeling fine but does limit climbing the City Hall steps to once a day.

Danna and Bert Courge spent the weekend visiting their respective mammas, Eloise (Mrs. Edgar) Williams and Mrs. Gordon Courge.

Belle Peterson, Grace and Sam Bordages and children Debbie, Tommy and Lisa report a fabulous time in Houston, Tex., where they were Easter guests of Belle's daughter Margie, son-in-law, Jimmy Wright and children Weldon, Jeanne and Ronnie.

The R. A. Steinmeyers had a full house for Easter... their two daughters and sons-in-law, the S. Keenan Mansons and three children of New Orleans and the M. L. McLeans and two children of Jackson were their guests.

Nookie and Louis Jacobi are in the throes of moving into their new Lakeside home.

We're a bit worried about one of our formerly most faithful correspondents... Hazel (Mrs. Charles A.) Dahlin... where are you???

Although the heret is still the most popular unconventional masculine headgear, Jack Humphreys is apparently feeling the LBJ effect... he was sporting an enormous cowboy hat when he, Yvonne and the children arrived for the weekend.

Report from Alaska

As we were frantically wracking our brain Saturday attempting to check on the fate of anyone from this area who might have been involved in the Alaskan earthquake, Larry Sauer very obligingly called with the welcome message that he had just received a reassuring phone call from Larry, III, who is stationed at the University of Alaska with the Air Corps. Larry, III, said that newspaper and tv reports were vastly exaggerated—that the death toll was much under first estimates and that no military personnel were injured.

Know Lizzie and Henry Capdepon were relieved as their granddaughter, the former Carol Higgins and her Airman husband are stationed there.

Newcomer affair

Newcomers and local residents including Mabel (Mrs. John) Green will serve as models at a combined Newcomers Club meeting, luncheon and fashion show to be held at Gus Stevens' Henderson Point restaurant on Wednesday, April 15.

Margaret and Dick Hadden and "Neetie" and Bill Lamb will host Bay-Waveland Yacht Club's Saturday cocktail hour called Ball the Bilges. The affair begins at 4 p. m.

Dot Mayfield is gleeful over the arrival of her first "grand-child"... Dot and Jim's 23 year old Tennessee walking horse gave birth to a frisky stud colt Monday night. The little animal has been christened Doctor Gautier in honor of Dot's late father as it was born on his birthday.

Billy Burrows is our latest European traveler... haven't had a chance to ask about his trip but hear he had a fabulous time.

Mrs. Claude Vincent returned home Tuesday after spending last week in Erath, La. where her mother, Mrs. Abraid Hebert, underwent surgery.

Jim Taylor, a native of Texas who now lives in New Orleans was a Bay visitor Monday.

Mrs. Harry Wardell has asked us to clear up a few facts about her great-granddaughter, little Michelle Jeanne-Camel who was New Orleans' first sweetheart of Heart Sunday. Michelle is not to undergo her second operation for quite some time.

Local pair take personnel course

Two local men, Sheldon M. Seuzeneau, Jr., whose parents live at 203 Union St., and Alvin K. Bourgeois, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie J. Bourgeois of Robert Street, Waveland, completed an eight-week personnel administration specialist course under the Reserve Enrollment program at Ft. Polk, La., March 13.

The two Army privates received training in the use of business machines such as addressographs and calculating machines and in facets of the Army personnel management program.

Seuzeneau, 23, is a 1958 graduate of St. Stanislaus College and Bourgeois, 24, finished at Bay High School in 1957. Both are 1963 graduates of the University of Southern Mississippi.

Smelose advises

It's a little late for this advice although gladioli bulbs may still be planted for blooming in the late summer... but when putting any bulb in the ground, don't follow directions on the package... we don't know enough to do more than tell you to ask your florist or nursery man... but instructions are intended for much colder temperatures than we usually experience and had excellent luck with tulip and jonquil bulbs planted exactly half the eight to ten inch depth suggested by the bulb company!

Sports scene

Rains messed up what bits of good fishing there was a week or so ago, but floundering is just getting right. More and more lights may be spotted offshore nightly. It's a bit early for soft shells but they should be getting plentiful within the next few days. As for hunting, we've heard some big fat frogs bellowing at night... as a reward for this tip we'll expect a frog or two from the first catch! Lobster's good, but nothing beats a fresh frog leg.

Animal note

Sorry to be so late expressing sympathy, but we didn't hear of the passing of Ferdinand's lovely stallion until we happened to see him last week. The horse looked to be in perfect health when Ferdinand fed him early the morning of Jan. 22, but dropped dead when he opened the stable door to give him a drink of water.

Ada Edel accompanied Nookie (Mrs. Louis) Jacobi to Covington where they visited Nookie's son Aloysius, a student at St. Benedict's on Easter Sunday.

Owen Williams is the latest local tv celebrity. He directed the choir of Immanuel Baptist Church in Gulfport in an Easter cantata which he, assisted by members of the choir, had written, on Channel 13 from 3 until 4 p. m. Sunday.

Visiting Owen, and wife Jane and family, for the weekend were Jane's mother, Mrs. Alice Casey and aunt, Miss Wilma Wells of Jackson.
